NEWS RELEASE

Boca Raton, March 25, 2011 – Renaissance Regulatory Services, Inc. (RRS) announced today that Rick White, formerly the Director of the Florida Division of Securities, has joined RRS as a Managing Director, Regulatory Services. Rick will work out of RRS' new office in Tallahassee, Florida.

Rick White brings a wealth of regulatory expertise to bolster our regulatory and compliance support services. His expertise and integrity are widely recognized in the industry and will be a valuable resource to our clients. Rick will initially focus his efforts on the looming investment adviser transition process from SEC to State registration for those advisers with assets between $25 million and $100 million. His experience and insight will be a valuable asset as we expand our emphasis on investment adviser regulatory compliance matters, including state regulatory compliance examinations. Rick will also be available to assist investment advisers and broker-dealers with other state regulatory matters, and for litigation support as an expert witness.

Rick has over 25 years of experience as a securities regulator and manager. Rick has extensive knowledge of state and federal securities laws, and investigation and examination techniques. He has also supervised the investigation, litigation and settlement of many complex securities cases. He also served as the chairman of the NASAA Investment Adviser Training Project Group for eight years and has extensive experience in the development of investment adviser examination procedures and the training of state investment adviser examiners. Rick can be reached in Tallahassee at:
